FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

GPLN member Celtic Forwarding handles equipment for a new milk processing plant in Ireland

Celtic Forwarding Limited, a GPLN member from Dublin in Ireland, handled recently equipment for a new milk processing plant currently under construction next to the Port of Waterford Belview - the nearest major Irish port to mainland Europe. The factory is being built by Glanbia at a cost of €150million and the plant will begin production in 2015 and export milk powder to Asia, Africa and South America. The components arrived at the port on the 12,000-deadweight-ton Clipper Athena from Shanghai in China and the vessel was turned around in less than eight hours. The local tug Bargarth, under the agency of GPLN member Celtic Forwarding, and also stevedoring, customs clearance and all other related matters were handled by their local office in Belview. The cargo consisted of 17 pieces of equipment and the heaviest three weighed 62 tons each. The cargo was discharged using the ship's cranes direct to the quay. A heavy haulage company trucked the equipment to the jobsite, about one kilometer away from the port. GPLN member Celtic Forwarding continues to supply the Glanbia site daily with concrete panels transported on trailers from Dublin.
